SCRIPT:	The hero of the story is Anna Hryniv, a journalist from Lviv who now lives and works in Odesa. Once she hosted live TV program for twelve hours in a row which became her personal record. It happened after the fire in the Odesa camp for children last autumn. The searches of missing children were ongoing. Journalists helped to collect the facts and broadcasted them instantly. The topic of the program was difficult, but necessary. Volunteers and law enforcement officers were guided by the facts that Anna reported and continued to search and investigate. Also that time due to the help of the journalist it became possible to collect the necessary amount of money for the rehabilitation of children after the fire. The girl says that she cannot work in another way. Anna Hryniv, the journalist: 00:24-00:47 My country is going through a difficult period, it is learning, it is growing. We are almost the same age. I understand that we should help her. And by such work, by such a rhythm, we will be able to achieve what we want. And we want to be a full-fledged, European country. 01:07-01:24 I probably will not forgive myself if in 10 years we do nothing to make our country successful. I will not forgive myself if I know that I worked for less than 100-150%. We have to work in such a way now.
