SLUGLINE:	Palestinian activist stands for women rights
HEADLINE:	Amani Arouri is a Palestinian activist from a conservative village in the West Bank. She is one of the defenders for women's rights, locally and internationally. In her story, Amani explains the reasons behind her activism.
DATELINE:	Ramallah, Palestine - 27/5/2020
SCRIPT:	00:00 – 00:05 Should the demand for women's right wait for achieving national liberation? Of course not  00:05 -00:08 It is the time for us to achieve equality and demand our rights  00:08 -00:13 I am Amani Arouri, a defender of human rights and specifically women's rights  00:13 -00:18 The goal I work for is to enable women raise their voice and demand their right

00:18 -00:23

What I aspire for is the ability of women to reach justice

00:23 -00:28

Among the campaigns that I participated in was against “marry-your-rapist”

00:28 -00:34

As a result Article 308, which exempted the rapist from punishment, if he marries his victim was canceled

00:34 -00:44

I communicated with at least a woman or a young girl every day and give advice and guidance

00:44 -00:47

I have been doing this for seven years

00:47 -00:50

I receive many letters from women saying “you have changed my life”

00:50 -00:55

Through my participation in many international conferences and events

00:55 -01:01

I was able to make the voice of Palestinian women heard in the most important world platforms

01:01 -01:09

Such as the UN Commission on the Status of Women Committee, UN Security council, UN Human Rights Council and UN conferences.

01:09 -01:16

Whoever choses to defend human rights must be ready to face any situation no matter how difficult it is

01:16 -01:21

Actually, I myself faced difficult situations; I was even threatened with the safety of my children.

01:21 -01:30

Although I actually had many opportunities to live in Europe and USA where my parents and family live

01:30 -01:35

I am very happy that I am living in the house and the village where I grew up

	01:35 -01:37 Among my family and people 01:37 -1:45 The most important message I would like to send to the world, is that Palestinian women are not just victims.
